Attachment to Seller Disclosure Statement for 851 Highway 20, Tonasket, Okanogan County, WA 98855

NOTES:

- 2.A. (1): There is a well, which, based on records my real estate agent located, was I believe dug in 1989 (see attached Water Well Report). It served a dwelling which was destroyed in a fire about 15 or 20 years ago when my husband and I owned only a security interest in the property but had no right of possession. I do not know and can make no warranties about the well's or its water's current condition. I have no records of any maintenance or testing of the well other than the Water Well Report attached. See also my statement under "3" below.
- 3.: The apparent site of the septic tank has been located but I do not know the current condition of the system. I have no records of its maintenance before or after I took ownership of it through foreclosure. My real estate agent and my office employee could not locate any records of initial approval through the county. The former owners did at one point reside on the property but I do not know what occurred with regard to permitting or maintenance when they lived there; there has been nothing done with the septic since I finally was able to take possession of the property after completion of the foreclosure proceedings. I can make no warranties as to the suitability of the septic system.
- 7.C.: There was a fire, and the power pole still stands and appears not to have been involved; I do not know whether the well or the septic system were affected.
- 7.I.: When the former owners left after their fire, the property was left unattended for several years before I attained possession through foreclosure. The former owners left quite a bit of their own debris, and either they or others left or dumped numerous tires and other debris and two burned-out trailers. I have since had two industrial-sized dumpsters' worth of debris removed, as well as metal trailer frames, etc. There is still some debris left (e.g., a pile of wood and other odds and ends).
- 7.H.: There is a utility pole that still sits on the property, but whether it is adequate for provision of electrical service to the property I do not know.
  I can make no warranties concerning what would be involved with a power hookup.

• 9.A.: According to the Okanogan County Treasurer's "Map-Sifter" aerial photo, there seems to be a road apparently serving a neighbor's residence which goes through the northeast corner of this property. This may be a recorded easement or an easement by prescription.
